Un-coffee for a month, she urges

Margaret Blackstone wants everyone to "join me in a cup of un-coffee" in March.

The Pleasanton Meadows homemaker is launching a Bay Area-wide boycott of the fragrant brown beverage in protest to the recent leap in coffee prices.

She's asking for a free speech message on KTVU and is approaching groups like the Junior Women, Jaycee Wives, Pleasanton Meadows Homeowners and Fairlands School Parent-Faculty Club for support. The petitions she's circulating read: We, the undersigned, are hereby declaring a boycott on all brands of coffee for the month of March in protest of the continuing rise in price of this product.

She plans to give copies of the signed petitions to retail stores and coffee distributors.

"Eight dollars for a three-pound can is absolutely ridiculous!" she declares. "The consumer does have the power to change that, whether they realize it or not."

She may be contacted at 3513 Churchill Court, Pleasanton (telephone: 846-8247) for copies of the petition.

"Even coffee addicts like me," she urges, "can give it up for one month."

Nuclear curbs

Lab wary of mood in White House

Although refusing to comment officially, Lawrence Livermore Laboratory leaders are keeping a wary eye on defense cutbacks totaling $2.8 billion proposed by Defense Secretary Harold Brown, himself a former LLL director.

President Jimmy Carter's feeler proposing a world-wide nuclear test ban as a first step towards total disarmament is also keeping Lab attention focused on Washington.

Added to these is a just-released U.S. Senate report stating the military balance in Europe has been "dramatically altered" in Russia's favor and recommends an extensive military and political overhaul to shore up faltering NATO forces.

LLL officials, worried ever since Carter began campaigning on a promise to cut $5-7 billion in current defense spending, were cheered earlier this month by President Ford's proposed budget announcing a 20 per cent increase in research and development funding, although the Lab's share would not be that great.

But Brown's proposals, which include budget reductions in more than 30 programs requested by Ford, incorporate a slowdown in some major nuclear weapons programs.

Nuclear weaponry is designed at two locations — Los Alamos, N.M., and the Livermore Lab.

Brown, a former Alamo resident who headed the Lab from 1960-61, has reportedly decided on tentative increases in ammunition stockpiles, equipment maintenance, construction of aircraft shelters and European weapons stocks.

He did not order cancellation of the proposed B-1 bomber program as some Air Force officials had expected, but did move to delay development of a more powerful missile, the MX, for at least a year.

LLL scientists are currently developing a bomb for the B-1 bomber and have talked with the Department of Defense on the MX missile warhead, although no work has begun.

In his first interview since taking office, Carter said Monday the USSR had sent an "encouraging" response to his proposal to ban all nuclear weapons tests as the first step towards total disarmament.

He listed a three-part program to achieve eventual destruction of the world's armaments supply. These included:

- A first step to put firm limits on Russian and American nuclear arsenals, with complete monitoring on both sides to insure compliance.
- Major reductions would be made in both armies' weapons to show sincerity to the world.

- All other nations, including France, Great Britain and the People's Republic of China, would be asked to reduce and eventually eliminate their nuclear weapons supplies.

Not all of the Lab's 6188 employees contribute to nuclear weaponry design. But LLL officials still roll their eyes when the 1958-61 moratorium on nuclear testing is mentioned.

A special 24-page issue of Newsline, the Lab's weekly newspaper for employees, recently described the scope and progress of nuclear weaponry under the assumption that Russia had equalled or surpassed the United States in the amount of standing nuclear armaments.

LLL Directors now await government affirmation or repudiation of that assumption.

Overhaul possible

Hard look at fair board

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Labor problems and new faces on the county board of supervisors may put an end to the honeymoon between the board and the quasi-autonomous Alameda County Fair Association.

Supervisor Fred Cooper wants the full board to take an early look at the county's contract with the non-profit association. The current contract expires in October.

And valley representative Valerie Raymond yesterday called for a complete staff report analyzing the relationship between the two boards and spelling out the cost differences between having the 21-member fair board and the county running the affair.

Board chairman Charles Santana of Hayward yesterday appointed Raymond and Cooper to a special committee to study the fair association and its board of directors.

Raymond and Cooper question directors' length of terms.

In a letter to the board, Cooper says he would like to see the board of directors phase out members with more than 10 or 15 years service.

He wants a citizens advisory committee "composed of people who are active as exhibitors at the Fair" eventually to replace half the retiring current directors.

Raymond said she got "lots of feedback about the fair association" in her campaign. She said she is "concerned about the bidding on concessions at the fair."

She and Cooper also question labor practices at the Pleasanton fairgrounds.

Central labor council executive secretary Dick Groulx accused fairgrounds manager Lee Hall of "harassing" employees who in the past voted for a union. The two union elections failed.

Presbyterians vote against church move

PLEASANTON — In a secret ballot last night the Community Presbyterian Church congregation voted 145 to 138 not to move its historic 100 year old church. Five people abstained.

This action means the church will build new buildings on the Mirador Drive site, property earlier planned for the church move.

Every seat in the church was taken and people were overflowed into the vestibules in what apparently was the largest turnout in a discussion which has come up in the congregation several times during the past year.

VALLEY NEWS BRIEFS

Wente rites

Representatives from some of California's leading institutions of commerce, from education and from government are expected to join with members of the family today in paying final tribute to Karl L. Wente. The memorial service this afternoon will honor the distinguished Livermore citizen who was active in a score of Valley and state roles before his untimely death at the age of 49. The 2 p.m. services will be held at Callaghan Mortuary.

Mori on education

New legislation being proposed in the area of education will be discussed by Assemblyman Floyd Mori with the Valley Education Advisory Committee Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

The panel will meet in the board room of the Pleasanton school district building, 123 Main St.

Representatives of the community, teachers, school administrators, and board members from the Murray, Pleasanton, Amador, and Sunol school districts will be attending.

The public is also invited to attend.

First growth meeting

DeWitt Wilson and Penny Delaray will take their seats on Pleasanton's growth management committee when it holds its charter meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) in the City Council Chambers, 30 W. Angela St.

Wilson was nominated by local builders for the builders' seat on the panel and Delaray, new chairperson of the housing authority, was chosen by commissioners for that group's spot on the committee.

Other members include Committee Chairperson and Vice - mayor Joyce LeClaire, Councilman Frank Brandes, Planning Commissioner Walt Wood, Park and Recreation Commissioner Howard Garrigan, Human Services Commissioner Sharon Kosch, and citizens James Tringham, Ann Rathjen, Brian Hoyt, and Jim Hertl.

City cites athletes

Pleasanton has a galaxy of sports heroes, judging by the city council's discussion Monday night.

The council already honored John Madden, Oakland Raiders coach, as coach of the year. One of Fred Biletnikoff's children delivered that citation to Madden in Pasadena before the Raiders became the victors in Super Bowl XI.

The council agreed to make out certificates of merit to local Raider players including Art Shell, Gene Upshaw, and linebacker coach Don Shinnick Monday night. Mayor Robert Philcox noted that quarterback Ken Stabler's horse is boarded in Pleasanton and maybe he should get a certificate, too, since that's the best local angle the council can do on Stabler.

Look at planning

The Valley Action Forum will meet this evening at 8 p.m. in the San Ramon Valley Education Center, 699 Old Orchard Road in Danville.

There will be a discussion of planning procedures related to the San Ramon Valley.

County and local officials will be participating. Eric Hasseltine, fifth district supervisor for Contra Costa County, is slated to be there. Other participants include Andrew Young, Contra Costa County planning commissioner; Juanita Burrow, chairperson for the Valley Planning Committee and Ken Samuels, chairman for the Valley Commercial Planning Committee.

What Carter really does in D.C.

Kindergarteners and the first common sense job description

PLEASANTON — Out of the mouths of babes!

Kindergarteners might be considered as babies by some but those of Ellen Lathlean and Mardelle Totah at Alisal School had some pretty incisive thoughts and opinions when they were asked who the new President is, who the old President is and what a President's job is, as Jimmy Carter was being inaugurated last Thursday.

Kindergartener Jeff, perhaps still having visions of Christmas past, said he didn't know any presidents. "I just know my grandpa's name. I think the old President was 'Holly', or maybe 'Terrance' or 'Russell.' I think a President is like a cousin. Maybe he puts up decorations when it's Christmas."

John C. hit all three questions pretty much on the nose, saying "Carter's the new President. The old one is Ford. He gets money for votes. He votes for people. He lives where he votes."

Troy not only had opinions on who the new and old Presidents are but how much they make and their ages. "I don't know our new one. The old one is Carter, I think. He does office papers. Six papers everyday. That's a lot! He writes on them. His job is to feed his children, too. He makes a thousand monies. I think he's 20 years old."

Says Gena, "The new one's probably hmmm, I forget his name. I know it's not Churchill, that's a different one. The old one's name is hard to say. My mom knows the new one, my dad knows the old one. He has some books at his desk and everybody sits down in chairs. He goes shopping and gets peanuts and apples, bananas and pears. And oranges.

Lisa wasn't sure who the new President is but, "I think the President works in his shop. He works on motors."

Tommy's responses to the three-part question turned into a thesis.

"I think our new President is name is '1976 George Washington.' The old one's name is Carter. He works on papers — colored papers. He makes a whole bunch of kind of thread. My dad told me that ... pur-

PLEASANTON — The illegal eagle is back in town.

But in the year he's been away, Baldy has reformed.

The broken-beaked former fugitive is not only a legal eagle now — he's also a star, landing it over a big eagle exhibit at the Livermore-Amador Historical Society Museum at the Fairgrounds.

Not so long ago, the mean-looking bird had the whole U.S. Fish and Wildlife Department after him.

That was when Wilma Stout of Pleasanton was his owner, little realizing it's against the law to possess a stuffed bald eagle because the national bird is an endangered species.

Mrs. Stout hadn't known anything about the Bald Eagle Act of 1940 when she went to Michigan to pick up Baldy, whom she had inherited from her brother. He had discovered the stuffy creature years ago at an abandoned Boy Scout camp.

It was that broken beak that gave the game away. Wilma took the eagle to a taxidermist, who wouldn't touch it without a permit.

The California Fish and Game Department wouldn't give her the permit without consulting the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The Fish and Wildlife people confiscated the eagle because of the bald eagle law.

Legal eagle returns with new image

And our broken-beaked hero served time somewhere in the federal bureaucratic morass.

Luckily, a provision in the law allowed him to be paroled to a non-profit public or educational institution. With Mrs. Stout vouching for him, Baldy arrived one day at the little cabin at the Fairgrounds where local historical memorabilia are lovingly displayed by curator Ann Lewis.

As luck would have it, a traveling eagle show recently arrived from the Smithsonian Institute of Washington, D.C.

Now, reports Mrs. Lewis, "He's a star." Head proudly cocked to one side, Baldy casts his glassy gaze over a roomful of gorgeous photographs of his relatives, taken by nature photographer Victor Banks.

He's already greeted hundreds of school children who have toured the exhibit. And he's waiting to meet the general public at two free shows this weekend, 1-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

After Sunday, the Smithsonian exhibit will move on to other museums.

But Baldy has reportedly been induced to stay on here.

They've promised him a beak repair job at last.

Crime prevention

Cops launch Leahy program

LIVERMORE — "I'm not throwing up my arms and saying we can't do anything about the crime in Leahy Square," Police Chief Ron Lindgren told The Times yesterday.

Reacting to a series of Leahy Square resident complaints to city council Monday, Lindgren said his department was starting a program to enlist citizen involvement and cooperation to prevent crime with a neighborhood-watch system.

Residents of the city's low cost housing project brought their fears and frustrations about crime and vandalism to the council, telling of burglaries, drug abuse, motorcyclists who ruin the grass and make noise.

A shortage of manpower is only part of the problem, Lindgren explained.

"We know there have been extortions and people have been forced to participate in crimes against their will," the police chief said, "but these people refuse to come forth and identify the criminals." "They have to decide which is worse — being victims of crime or fearing retaliation."

He noted how younger children are forced by older children to burglarize homes.

"They fear for their lives."

Residents do call to say a crime has been committed or that a certain person is selling drugs, Lindgren said, but without these citizens signing complaints and going to court nothing else can be done.

After several meetings with Leahy Square residents and the Livermore Housing Authority board, said Lindgren, a new program has begun.

Holding a yellow brochure, just back from the printers, Lindgren told The Times, "We're inviting them to invite us into their homes to show them what they can do to protect themselves."

The program would have neighbors act as a team with police. Key areas include:

- improving physical security in every home.
- increasing chances of apprehension by making citizens more alert to suspicious situations.
- providing a direct line of communication between residents and police.
- increasing the probability of returning stolen items through intensive identification programs.

Lindgren said anyone interested in forming a neighborhood watch unit should contact Sgt. Don Lee at police headquarters or call 443-0111, ext. 29.

Inside the brochure is a simple illustration, showing residents how to secure the sliding doors at the apartments.

Also provided is a security check list, called STOP THIEF, with each letter of the two words indicating another step to take:

- Secure your home with good locks on doors and windows. Don't give the thief any help in his break-in effort.
- Take care of your keys; don't give others a chance to duplicate them.
- Outside, don't let your house look unoccupied. Keep things from piling up ... have your lawn mowed.
- Put a light on while away ... preferably one with an automatic timing device.
- Think twice before letting strangers know when you'll be away from home, or before letting one in.
- Have police and a trusted neighbor check your home while you're away for more than a few days.
- Insure your possessions and keep an up-to-date inventory of them.
- Etch an identifying number on items a thief might steal. Keep valuables in a safe deposit box.
- Find out about burglar alarm systems.

If the people educate themselves, said Lindgren, they will become harder targets of the thief.

Having more officers to improve response time would help, he added. "It would have impact, but not eliminate it."

Schools set for showdown

LIVERMORE — Livermore Unified School District leaders are gearing for a showdown with the teachers.

After Saturday's fruitless negotiating session between the school board and the Livermore Education Association, school board president Manuel Prado decided to scratch last night's announced public meeting on district goals, and instead concentrate the board's time on a closed session dealing with negotiations.

With the threat of a teachers' strike hanging over their heads, the board added substitute teachers' salaries to the list of things they would discuss.

"On Saturday after we met, I saw there was a lot of work to be done in the negotiations area," board president Prado explained yesterday. "I thought we should devote all of our time to looking at the negotiations aspect."

Teachers took the switch to mean that the school board was beefing up substitutes' salaries in preparation for a possible walkout. But Prado said simply that the board needed to look at classified employees' negotiation demands as well as teachers since they have not settled with either party.

Meanwhile, teachers found in their mailboxes both a "negotiations update" from board representative Dr. Justin Bardellini, and a letter from Superintendent of Schools Leo Croce urging them to conduct themselves in a "professional" manner without walking out.

Superintendent Croce said Monday, "We expect to open the schools just as if everybody was there" in case of a teacher walkout. He said all 637 teaching positions would be covered and parents should send their children to school as usual.

Teachers will apparently support a walkout with unusual enthusiasm, judging from a 321-12 rejection of the school board's latest offer, expressed in a vote taken Monday afternoon, and a 3-1 agreement to authorize their leadership to call a strike at any time, expressed in a second vote.

Murray search

Consultant picked

Dr. Donald J. Leu is the choice of the Murray School District Board of Trustees to direct the search for a new superintendent.

Leu, presently assigned to educational administration at San Jose State University, was one of three persons interviewed by board members at a closed session Monday night at district offices in Dublin.

Acting Assistant Superintendent Heinz Gewing, who has stated he would not apply for the position, said the consultant position "normally costs about $3,000 to $4,000, depending on how much time the consultant spends on the project."

Leu's appointment as consultant to direct the search for a replacement for Dr. Donald Williams will be publicly confirmed at the board meeting of Monday, Feb. 7 at Cronin School.

He is expected to serve in much the same capacity as when the Amador and Pleasanton school districts hired Dr. Harry McPherson of the University of California in the spring of 1974 to secure applicants for the position vacated by Rudy Gatti.

The Amador and Pleasanton boards authorized expenditure of up to $5,000 for the consultant's position. As it turned out, little more than half of that amount was expended. The search for a new superintendent resulted in the hiring of Dr. Bruce C. Newlin, formerly top man with the Lancaster schools.

Leu is a resident of Saratoga and is currently professor of administration and higher education at San Jose State. Prior to coming to San Jose in 1968, Leu was an associate professor and professor of education at Michigan State University.

He served as Deputy State Superintendent of Education for the State of Michigan from 1957-59.

Leu is 53 years old. The search for a superintendent to replace Williams, who served six years in that position, is expected to last through the spring with a possible appointment by June.

Scholarship drive underway again

Amador Valley Scholarships, Inc. is again seeking donations from Valley residents so it will be able to present Amador Valley, Foothill and Dublin High School graduates with scholarships this June.

The minimum scholarship given is $300. The amount asked for as a donation is $1 and up.

AVSI is a community non-profit organization dependent upon contributions from local organizations and individuals who are invited to participate in the screening committee in May to help interview and select candidates from Pleasanton and Dublin.

The first donors for this year's scholarships are the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association, Pleasanton Junior Women's Club, Pleasanton Soroptimist Club, Pleasanton Business and Professional Women's Club, and VFW Auxiliary 6298.

Last year in June a total of $2,200 was awarded six recipients: Jeffrey Helliniga, Tom Hart Memorial Award; Mary Hottel, Wayne Crowe, Rosalie Virgin, Tom Daley and Roger Brothers. Edward Runshaw and Jeanette Dignan are alternates.

Last year's donors included VFW Post 9968, Pleasanton Soroptimists, Student Trustee Account, Dublin High School, Gene Pappa, First National Bank of Pleasanton, Pleasanton Women's Club, Dub-linSan Ramon Women's Club, Women's Club of Dublin, Business and Professional Women's Club of Pleasanton, Tom Hart Memorial Fund, a memorial to Hugh Welch, and Fred Hanscom.

Arabian Nights

PLEASANTON—Seventh graders at Harvest Park School will present "Arabian Nights," an eastern fantasy whose cast includes 30 dancing girls, tonight at 7:30 at the school on Valley Avenue.

Proceeds from the production, which will also be given Thursday during the day, go toward the cost of bringing a professional theater group presentation of "Macbeth" to the school's seventh graders.

Students in the drama are being coached by Andy Jorgensen, Jane Manning, and John Lanto.

On Tuesday, the school hosted a "Pizza Night" at Straw Hat Pizza on Hopyard Road with a portion of proceeds going to the school's instrumental and choral music programs.

Chamber captain and his crew

LIVERMORE — When Bob Brunts takes over the helm of the chamber of Commerce ship at Friday's installation dinner - dance, he will be supported by a crew for each of the chamber's councils.

Bob Rumberger is the new vice president for economic development, which plans and implements business and industrial development projects to increase the employment rate in the area and produce a favorable business climate in the community.

Among other things his council will do is promote agricultural advancement, natural resources development, conventions and tourism.

The two major projects under the economic development council are industrial development (headed by Earl Mason) and retail trade development (headed by Chuck Dunn and Pat Brown).

Rick Corbett is the new vice president of the environmental affairs council which concerns itself with community betterment in terms of aesthetic, cultural and human values. Project areas include education, transportation, anti-pollution, recreation, health and well-being, beautification, social opportunities, law enforcement and fire prevention.

The chamber development council under new vice president Burke Critchfield is in charge of the annual installation dinner - dance. This year the council will also include a finance committee charged with finding new ways of raising money for chamber activities and helping the treasurer and president control disbursement of chamber funds.

Susan Scott is the new vice president of the governmental affairs council which promotes efficiency in government and takes an active role in the influence of the governmental function as it affects local business operations and community development.

All four vice presidents are looking for volunteers who would like to serve on chamber committees. Any member of the chamber is welcome and encouraged to participate.

New chamber directors to be installed Friday include Dick Pugh, Dom Saccullo, Ed Hutka, Pat Brown and Chuck Dunn.

The chamber directors meet on the third Tuesday of the month for a morning work session. The general membership and friends of the chamber are invited to take part in a no host luncheon, usually held the fourth Tuesday each month. Call the chamber office for details and to volunteer.

Holder - Herrera

Robin Holder was married to David Herrera in a candlelight ceremony at her parents' home in Pleasanton, with Rev. Robert Vogt officiating. Attending the bride was Janna Dean and Sam Herrera was his brother's best man. The bride's brother, Russell, served as usher.

Robin, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bert Holder, is a 1972 graduate of Amador High School. She attended California State University at Chico and is a graduate of Brooks College of Fashion Design.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.J. Herrera and is a police officer with the city of Long Beach, where the couple will reside. Special guest at the wedding was Robin's maternal grandmother, Lillian Kindig of Denver, who recently celebrated her 89th birthday.

Roberts - Snook

A spring wedding has been set by Debra Ann Roberts and Richard Snook. Debra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Roberts of Pleasanton and is a 1974 graduate of Dublin High School.

A 1976 Chabot College alumni, Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Snook of Castro Valley.

Debra and Richard will be married May 22.

Karl Wente

His root was that of the vineyard, nurtured by the soil from which a proud family had gone forth to achieve so very much, in many other harvests. And like them, Karl L. Wente reached beyond this place to serve his fellowman in a dozen different roles, each a challenge to the man, a compliment to his name.

They will ask to be remembered today ... members of the Board of Trustees for California State Colleges and Universities, directors with the Bank of America and Pacific Gas and Electric Company, followers of the Farm Bureau, the California Wine Institute, the Valley Memorial Hospital.

Karl Wente had served them all, with vigor and with distinction. And he served them, and the winery that bore his family name, even while he carried the pain of illness that was to mark much of his adult life.

Karl Wente was allotted less than 50 years on this earth. But it was a full life, resplendent with his accomplishment, memorialized by those who today salute his name.

Pipeline epic

Editor, The Times:

... a large number of ... agency representatives came to the Shannon Center on Jan. 15 for a repeat performance of the Super Sewer Epic before a small group of valley citizens ... It was largely one group of agency "brass" talking to another. ... all but a few had the seemingly same goal, to get all that they could of the 30 odd millions of grant funds for the Sewer project. ...

This large congress of public agencies spent two hours talking to one another mostly over the heads of the few citizens present ... The charade ... ended with more questions than answers. The few of us who stayed for the whole show ... left with the feeling that very little had really been accomplished. Nowhere in the show were figures presented that would make it possible to compare costs of the pipe over the hill with any of several alternatives for land disposal ...

The disturbing fact is that after the payment of what is approaching a half-million dollars for studies, only two of many possible plans for waste-water disposal have been seriously considered. The evidence is overwhelming that the agencies involved want our waste water pumped over the hill at our expense to join the East Bay giant discharge pipe in the vicinity of Castro Valley and not at the mouth of Niles Creek where it would flow by gravity. This gives rise to the suspicion that someone wants this water delivered at great pressure flowing down the hill to keep their eight to ten foot East Bay Discharge pipe from plugging up. ...

Zone 7 has made a gesture of $10 Grand for a joint study with LAVVMA for a land disposal system and I respectfully suggest they "get with it."

Council agenda

Open letter to the Livermore City Council:

Many people in Livermore feel that you could progress as a modern group of responsive officials if you would revamp the council agenda to separate the chaff from the wheat. One of the most important items on the agenda is the city manager's report which contains information of vital interest to all residents. Why is the report of the most-important and highest-paid city official shelved to the least and worst time slot? Citizens seem to agree that this is an attempt to keep information on city business for the benefit of a few ... This also seems to be a reason why the city manager is unknown and distrusted by many people who live in Livermore.

Bing's fling

Since Earth tilted on its axis four years ago, shifting California to the Sahara Desert, change has come to the Crosby Pro-Am Golf Championship.

What Bing's clambake needs more than anything right now is a good deluge. Maybe then things would return to normal.

If you were anywhere near the Monterey Peninsula Saturday, or Pebble Beach in particular, it was obvious what has become of the Crosby.

It's been turned into a bloody spectacle — the Super Bowl of golf. Officials of the pro tour say more people attended the Crosby Saturday than any other event in PGA history. Most had never seen a golf course. Some had never seen grass before.

As long as the sun shines in Carmel, and Presidents leave the throne prior to tee-off time, it will be the same. Pandemonium.

Only on Sunday, when the celebrities and Arnold

Palmer taxied away in their Learns, did golf become the centerpiece of the tournament. For the first three days of the Crosby, the game was just a lot of commotion in the middle of a garden party.

Sunshine and Gerald Ford lured beautiful people to Monterey Peninsula. They all lounged on well manicured lawns behind the 18th green at Pebble Beach Golf Links.

It was a scene reminiscent of the horse race in "My Fair Lady," where even the jockeys wore tails. There was a difference, however. In the movie, spectators actually watched the race.

At Pebble Beach, they were content to compare cashmere and gaucho outfits, and if a touring golf pro happened into the clubhouse saloon, well, spiffy.

If not, you could always see them on TV next week at the Greater Gulag Open.

It wasn't like this in earlier days. Back then, it would storm and snow — civilized weather for mid-winter. The upper class would hide behind picture windows in 18th fairway estates, fire crackling, wine flowing.

Weather-resistant golf fans would trudge the links along with the original gnomes. Bing himself would be ever-present around the 18th, collar upturned, pipe steaming.

Since the tournament has become a bona fide event, however, annotated by ABC with an appear-

School affairs

Crucial weeks are ahead for the Amador, Pleasanton and Murray school districts.

It starts with tonight's joint boards meeting at the Amador - Pleasanton school offices when a University of California Field Services report on the local districts' business operations is reviewed.

The advent of collective bargaining has made this critical department's job even more difficult. Management and staff personnel of a school district business services section are "under the gun" constantly.

So it is of considerable importance when that department is analyzed, its operations put under the microscope of an open-minded third party.

For all those with a sincere concern in learning more about the business operations of a school district, tonight's joint meeting is a "must."

Tonight's gathering will also be of some interest to residents of the Murray School District, which is nearing a final decision on a new business manager and hiring a consultant to recruit applicants for the vacant superintendency.

Murray hopes to work out a hot lunch program with the Amador - Pleasanton Food Services section, to commence in March from one central location, possibly Dublin School.

But the three districts face many other major decisions in the immediate weeks to come.

The Pleasanton district will undergo fact-finding in yet another effort to produce a 1976-77 contract. Amador is on the verge of doing the same while awaiting a decision on the five-point suit brought by the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association (AVSEA).

And classified employees are awaiting the outcome of an unfair labor practices suit that was in the works for several months.

Murray, as previously mentioned, must select a business manager who will be able to come in and quickly master an understaffed and mired situation. An appointment may come at the first school board meeting in February.

The search for a superintendent won't be completed until well after the school board elections in March. Murray school board members interviewed four prospective consultants Monday night. The consultant will be responsible for locating a number of qualified applicants for the superintendent's position, vacated when the board approved Dr. Donald Williams' request for sick leave status.

Amador - Pleasanton also hired a consultant when Rudy Gatti left the district for Santa Clara. The statewide search led to the hiring of Dr. Bruce Newlin, previously superintendent in Lancaster.

All of these actions should draw considerable interest from residents of the three districts, particularly the 15 candidates vying for the eight board positions to be open in March.

Bob Allen on BART

Editor, The Times:

Re your editorial "Funny BART," our rules call for regular Board of Directors meetings on the second and fourth Thursday each month. Recent Board presidents (and at least one vice-president) have capriciously "cancelled" those meetings by predicting lack of quorum.

BART staff and the 2½ million residents of our three BART counties have a right to expect elected directors to attend meetings specified in our Board rules. Regular Board meetings can be cancelled only by an advance record vote of the Board, not by one man's arbitrary decree.

Under state law BART directors receive $50 for each Board and committee meeting attended up to five in any month. Any over five are unpaid, and thus a good measure of director's interest in BART business.

You might find the enclosed charts of interest. They show overall attendance by directors at meetings. Director Glasser, who tried to make non-quorum Board meetings an issue, has attended not even one of the 20 unpaid meetings in the past year. (I've made all, at substantial loss in pay from my job at SP.) Perhaps Harvey, part of the clique that has dominated BART for two long years, is a bit touchy about his record and fears a recall.

Imported ideas

If I could borrow some social ideas that work well in another country and try to adapt them to the United States, I would pick three very good ones from China.

One of the ideas would straighten things out for millions of American workers in the personality conflicts which inevitably arise on the job. It is called criticism - self-criticism. Suppose two people have a dispute over roles on the work team in a factory. The first person will get up in front of the co-workers in a small group and make the best possible case — for the other person. The other person does the same for the first. It's an exercise in empathy and a good way to solve interpersonal problems.

T-groups and other therapy group situations sometimes are brought into American business and to some degree they are trying to do the same thing. But usually these programs only are done for top or middle management and very few places are using them. The rule is still everyone for himself or herself, which is the logical consequence of a system where the top guy gets the most money from the production in the factory.

So the second ideal I'd borrow is eight different pay scales. That's all they have in China. Some Americans would say it's silly to have only eight different pay scales. How would you motivate anyone to work if the person on the bottom of the scale doesn't make much less than the one at the top. In China, there are good historical reasons why the citizens pull together for the common good. Before their revolution, people used to starve in the streets. Memories of that seem to keep them going toward the common good. In the USA, we don't have misery affecting a large per cent of the population, though it's interesting to note that the distribution of the wealth has not changed since 1913 when the income tax was instituted. I guess the best any ideal-ist could hope for in the USA would be for people to take the 1776 promise of equality seriously and apply it to economics, where it really really counts.

Equal wages and permanent economic security for all Americans obviously is needed, especially now that we are finding the earth is a finite resource. The American approach to date has been to manufacture and market thousands of unnecessary doodads — from autos down to hula hoops — to keep the economy going.

Since blue collar workers are at the bottom when the money sifts down from these doodad projects, they are among the loudest lobbyists for the doodads. Witness the Dow Chemical Plant in the delta as the most recent example. With a more secure economy, jobs would not be tied to environmentally hurtful schemes.

The third idea I would borrow from the Chinese is to forget about producing passenger cars. Though I just mentioned this above, it's worth it's own heading since the auto is the most destructive force in America. It not only contributes to lung diseases, but its social impact has been tremendous. Social commentators talk about the connection between today's extremely mobile society and such signs of alienation as juvenile delinquency. They might consider the auto's major role in making this a mobile society.

The auto is an anarchic transportation system. If someone came to you and said, "I can design you a transit system which kills 50,000 people a year," you'd think the person were insane. But that's what you get with the automobile.

The Chinese have been smart to forego the auto. They won't become dependent on the whims of OPEC, they will have enough oil for their basic industries and, well, can you imagine the cloud of smog over the Pacific Ocean if 300 million Chinese were driving cars?

Round the town

Where else but in America? ... could you watch the transition of government being televised from the nation's capital in the morning, and then drive down to Monterey in time to catch the deposed president "hitting a bucket of balls" into the Californian twilight, trying to get himself pumped up for the Crosby Invitational just like any other 18-handicap hacker? ...

And where else but in America might you join 10,000 other laborers, doctors, bus drivers, teachers, pregnant mothers ... all wedged around a single patch of grass to cheer and joke with Gerald Ford, Andy Williams, Clint Eastwood, Flip Wilson and a host of Joe Whothat's ... freed from the confines of their own structured world in order to stumble past hazards and through pencil-poised crowds in an orgy of fun and frenzy that prompted Flip Wilson to cry out (after first skulking two shots and being skulled by six pencils) ... "THANK GOD FOR SHOW BIZ!"

Surely nowhere but in California, along that particular stretch of God-given sand and shore, thunderous ocean and shocking-blue sky, might any free man be able to partake of such a feast ... borne on the crest of excited joy that results when people and nature, politicians and nobodies blend together into one full-color portrait.

Yes, I found the Bing Crosby Pro-Am Golf Invitational an impressive affair. But upstaged shamefully by that Monterey setting. How can a man concern himself with Arnold Palmer's bogey when the Pacific Ocean is trying to beat its way across 17 Mile Drive? How dare Jack Nicklaus line up that 20-foot putt just when the cry goes out ... "THE WHALES! Look at the whales!"

A dedicated golf-watcher is soon captured by the legion of surf-watchers in that unfair battle. A sportsman might conjure up an environmental impact report as Palmer and his army go trespassing into the jewels of sand, the sensitive blades of ice plant which lay first claim to the Monterey Shore Course.

Give me one more day at The Crosby and I would be among those signing a petition to ban the whole blessed affair! But, not really. For it was Mr. Crosby and his followers whose magic pulled us into the forests of Del Monte ... just as they pulled thousands upon thousands of others ... but many of whom seemed to drift away from the golf action every now and then ... to walk the freshly laundered sands ... to sit for an hour in company with a seagull ... or to test your own skills against the awesome majesty of Spyglass Hills Golf Course even while the rest of the world seemed want to congregate at Pebble Beach.

It is a fascinating conflict, that mixing of stars and worshippers and sand dunes, a world-wide audience unaware of the quiet cove that invites just one invader, and no more than one.

There is reality of another kind in the struggle that nearby home owners are waging against forces that would convert the pristine harshness of Spanish Bay into a pad for yet another luxury motel. And you find yourself in legion with those who protest ... "But not here!"

You find a strange, unwelcome understanding also in the knowledge that "Monterey is in critical need of water ... there is a total freeze on new homes until we can find new water sources ..."

So their world, just as our world, is buffeted by the pressures of growth, victim to the very magic that first brought Stanford and Fleishhacker and Dollar and those early-day developers onto Monterey Bay ... to buy up the forested acres of Pebble Beach ... to build the rail lines that would link San Franciscans to this hallowed place ... and to thereby start the cycle of which the Bing Crosby Invitational is but a small part.

And there are those who, then or now, might say ... "How beautiful might this all be today if Leland Stanford and his Del Monte Properties Company had not triggered this development ..."

Yes, beautiful and private and forbidding. Cut off from those millions who have shared an unforgettable moment with Crosby and his friends. Unknown perhaps to the tens of thousands who have regenerated their own interest in "the good outdoor life" with a game of golf in this place where life itself is regenerated.

I am counted now among the intruders. And I am puzzled more than ever by those who must always find conflict between the bounty of nature and the needs of man.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — Lately I have been on a diet, consisting of yogurt, diet cola and one meal at dinnertime. I have lost some weight and my complexion is improving. Do you think that this unsupervised diet is wise?

Also, I recently read that washing one's face with plain yogurt can enhance the beauty of the skin and clear up blemishes, even more so than taking it internally. Do you recommend this sort of cleansing? Please tell me its value.

DEAR READER — I am sure people who sell yogurt would be delighted with the treatment and it might help them a great deal. It will do nothing for you. You might get some moisturizing effect that you could get from any oil or cream if you should be using such a substance at all.

Most complexion problems in young people are related to acne problems. To clear up your skin from these problems you need to keep your skin clean and keep it free of any oily creams or lotions. Acne can be treated in most cases and it may require taking medicine. To give you a better understanding of acne problems and to keep you from making it worse instead of better I am sending you The Health Letter 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Whether or not your diet plan is safe and sane depends entirely what is in that one meal a day you eat. There is a good chance that your diet is inadequate. The way to eliminate excess weight and keep it off is to learn enough about sensible dieting to be able to follow a balanced calorie control diet for life that fits with your lifestyle. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet that will help you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 62 years old and about four years ago I contracted a heart condition and can no longer work. My problem is this terrible cough I have. The doctors say it is due to a heart condition, but I can't see how because I have had this cough for 20 years and the heart condition is recent. I cough sometimes for hours until my chest is sore.

Would you please comment? Incidentally, I haven't smoked for over 20 years.

DEAR READER — When the pumping action of the heart is not strong enough, fluid accumulates in the tissues. This can cause swelling of the feet and ankles or even the abdomen. When the left side of the heart is affected — and it is usually affected first in many forms of heart disease — the fluid accumulates in the lungs. The swelling of the lung tissues results in coughing to clear the lungs of fluid that has accumulated in the tiny air sacs.

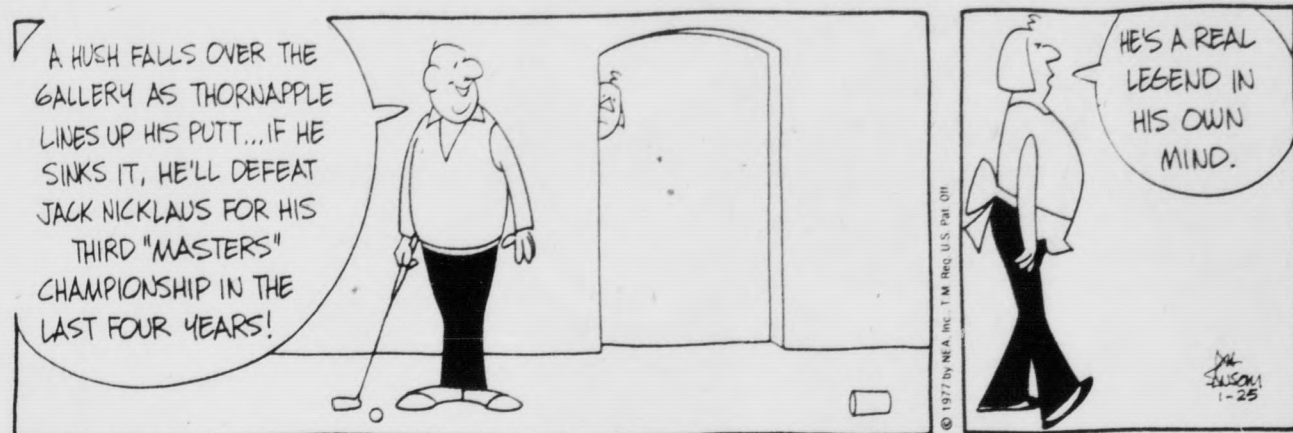

I dare say your cough was not as bad 20 years ago as it is now or you would have done more about it sooner. Your doctors probably think that even though you have had a cough for 20 years that it is now worse because of your heart condition.

If your heart is the cause of your cough you should be on a salt restricted diet and should be taking medicine to help your body eliminate salt and also on medicine to strengthen your heart — the digitalis type medicines.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Unfortunately, persons who have the clout to grant you favors today are not inclined to do so. Don't embarrass yourself by asking.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's best to avoid dealing with one in whose presence you feel uncomfortable today. This person realizes he has the edge, and could take advantage.

GENI (May 21-June 20) Don't kid yourself in business today into thinking you're dealing from strength when you're really not. Only you could be hurt by this deception.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're not in the mood to let others do your thinking today, but it could happen if you choose the wrong companions. Placid types suit you best.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a tendency to mentally increase the magnitude of work today and end up minimizing the effort. You'll cry tomorrow.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't pretend to be or have more than you are today. Don't play the old game of one-upmanship.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Steering the middle course destroys your effectiveness today. Sometimes it's better to make a stand, even if it's the wrong one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Kind words and gentle suggestions are a must in dealing with subordinates today. A soft answer begets allegiance.

How library sizes up no-fines

DUBLIN — The no-fine policy for overdue books at Dublin Public Library and other Alameda County branch libraries has proved to be successful ever since it was instituted in July, 1970.

A survey was conducted beforehand to determine the feasibility of using the no-fine system.

"When you are trying to run a service such as a library, it is too much of a hassle trying to collect fines," said Virginia Bennett, head librarian of the Dublin branch.

"I hope we never go back to collecting fines," said Lois Lindquist, business manager for Alameda County Library System.

It cost the libraries more to collect fines than they received in revenues, according to Lindquist and Bennett.

Formerly, library staff members had to devote a lot of time to assessing, collecting and accounting for fines. Since they are freed from this they can provide improved service to patrons.

Circulation has increased since the psychological barrier related to bringing in late returns has been removed.

Children benefit especially from the no-fine system. Usually, through no fault of their own, they would not be able to return a book. The parent would punish the child by suspending book borrowing privileges. This kind of treatment often turned children against using the library.

The no-fine system avoids penalizing those who are not chronic offenders. Unusual circumstances may prevent them from returning a book on time.

No system in the world can make the minority group of habitual offenders return a book before a deadline.

"But the fact we don't charge fines in the branch libraries doesn't mean we don't want our books back," emphasized Lindquist. "We certainly do want them. And we charge for lost or damaged books. That's why we have our Central Overdues operation at the Alameda County Library offices in Hayward."

This facility handles any necessary assessment, collecting and accounting for overdue books.

Three weeks after a book is overdue a notice is sent out by Central Overdues staff. If there is no response, they send a bill. If there is still no response, a messenger is sent to collect the bill or the book.

Some people still insist on paying a fine.

"I think they are paying their conscience," said Bennett. "If they keep on insisting, we suggest they make their payment in the form of a donation to Friends of the Library."

Libraries in other parts of the country have periodic Amnesty Days when fines are not charged.

The Chicago Public Library held such a day in 1968 that resulted in the return of 104,893 overdue and stolen books. Some of them had been missing for 39 years.

Beautiful ending to fowl season

In the Bag

The California Wild Fowl Season came to a close at sundown Sunday. It was a beautiful, clear, quiet evening — a contrast to the cold, foggy morning. As if to say good-bye, a long line of geese flew overhead aiming straight for some destination to the south.

If you didn't get your share of ducks or geese, it might have been due to circumstances beyond your control. Or it might have been because you overlooked some small details. For instance, maybe you didn't take enough shells; or your waders leaked; or you forgot to push safety off, didn't reload after the last shot — these are all things that I did.

On the other hand, sometimes it was just too foggy; the hunter in the next blind had a better caller; it was so cold your hands were too stiff to work well. Whatever the reason, and successful or not, we'll all look forward to next season!

Don't forget the LLLRA Sturgeon and Striped Bass Fishing Derby the weekend of January 29 and 30.

Tough competition will be the order of the day at the Livermore - Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club on February 6 when the first Running Deer Competition Shoot of the year will be held. Bring your buddy, lots of ammo; you can also shoot at the iron chicken, the gong, or just sit down at one of the new benches and sight in your favorite shooting iron.

Ron Berg observes that "Now the hunting pressure is off, the weather is warming up?" Anyway, Ron says, he now has a little time to spend drawing up plans, getting tools and lumber together, and building a scull boat. "I'm going to have it ready for next year's duck season." Good Luck, Ron!

Al Sabbatini joined his son-in-law, Dave Hughes, and a friend, Dan Johnston, for a hunting trip to Los Banos last weekend.

They got in line early at the "first come, first served" area at the Refuge there, then turned in for a few hours sleep. When that mean waker-upper, Lee Ashford, came around in the early morning, it was unbelievably foggy.

The decoys set out, all they could do was wait and hope for the fog to lift. Al says he was a little disappointed; but they did come home with five birds, so it was a worthwhile trip. Now is the time to let the birds fly free and come again next season.

A new 8 MM magnum is on the market by Remington Arms. It may not have quite the wallop of the 375 H&H Magnum, but has more than the popular .338 Win. mag. and the .300 magnums. It appears to be in the same class as the .358 Norma magnum.

Remington plans two loads for their new maggie — 185 and 220 grains. Both will be in pointed soft point core - lokt bullets. Rated velocity of the 220 grains is 2830 fps and packing close to 3900 - plus foot pounds of energy. It sounds like a very interesting new cartridge. But it's not chambered for anything but the Rem model 700 BDL (magnum version).

Whether you have designs on a big grizzly, a moose, or maybe some of these mean little digger squirrels in the valley, this all-purpose cartridge may be what you're looking for.

Another item just out is a new bench rest action, or varmint action which is first rate. This is the new Wichita bench rest action (L.H. or R.H.). But you have to furnish your own trigger guard and trigger. You also have a choice of stock.

This new action retails for about $225. If you're interested, write to Wichita Engineering and Supply, Inc., P.O. Box 11371, Wichita, Kansas 67211. They'll send the information you need.

Winners of 21 awards in the eighth year of the California Fish and Game Commission's Award Program have just been announced. A notable catch by Donald Mortensen of Antioch was a sturgeon weighing 313 pounds!

Close to home were a father and son who were both winners, John H. Roush of Kentfield, Marin County; and son Michael, a fishery biology student at UC, Davis.

John Roush was a repeat winner from last year. Incidentally, Roush, who lives at 27 Terrace Ave., Kentfield 94904, has a new book out, "Successfully Fishing Lake Tahoe."

Michael Roush's lake trout was tops in the category in which his father won last year. His catch was a 26 lb. 8 oz. trout taken at Lake Tahoe.

Ken Crow of Richmond was a winner with a Brown trout, 25 lbs. 7 oz. from Lewiston Lake.

James Kehn of San Jose won with a striped bass weighing 58 lbs. 8 oz. from San Joaquin River.

Most of the other 21 winners were from other parts of the state. If you are interested in the Award Program, which also provides important biological data, information is available from the Commission office at 1416 Ninth St., Sacramento, CA 95814.

Dons rout SR

By Marty James

DANVILLE — Playing with the skill and fluidity which has enabled them to rank among the leaders, Amador Valley High's soccer team blitzed helpless San Ramon, 7-0, here yesterday afternoon.

The Dons, now in second place at 7-2-1 were led by Greg Oxen's two goals. Oxen scored once in the first half and again in the second half. By that time, however, this one had all been over.

Like a pinball machine, the Dons continually hammered away at goal, but were only turned away in the early going as most of their shots were hurried. San Ramon, on the other hand, didn't fair that badly. But they didn't exactly set the field on fire, either.

The Wolves, who were credited with only two shots on goal, kept the Dons in check with their traditional 'free wheelin' style of play.

San Ramon, which didn't have the ball very often on offense, failed in their only attempt at a score. Dan Chavez, who has scored two of the Wolves' three goals this season, had the ball deflected off the upper cross bar of a penalty kick.

But now back to reality. The Dons, who produced an amazing 28 shots on goal, tallied four times in the opening half and consequently subdued the Wolves in the second period with three more goals.

Amador opened the scoring 15 minutes into the game as Pat Cohan, with an assist from Keith Clay, slapped a ground stroke past two defenders that caught the left cross bar and bounced back in goal.

Three minutes later, Clay dribbled through a pair of defenders and led loose beautifully executed shot that landed in the upper corner of the nets.

Oxen, meanwhile, had a

Pokes edge Falcons, share lead

By Dave Weber

Livermore High School regained a share of first place in the East Bay Athletic League soccer standings with a 1-0 win over co-leader Foothill yesterday, but coach Dennis Rashe isn't taking the Cowboys success for granted.

"There wasn't one guy out there who doesn't deserve credit for something," Rashe said after the contest ended in the bitter-cold dusk at Foothill's mammoth field. "I really appreciate them."

And, looking at the remainder of the EBAL schedule, Rashe must appreciate that calendar. The 'Pokes have games remaining with California, Amador Valley and Monte Vista — only one of them a serious contender. On the other hand, Foothill must face Amador, MV and Granada — two of them toughies.

"I think our chances our very good," Rashe said. Foothill coach Keith Sweet doesn't believe his team is out of it though he made no excuses for the loss.

"It was a battle between a lack of offense and the defense," he mused, citing Livermore's early advantage in shots. "They took the first half and we took the second."

But "they" got the lone goal, late in the first half after midfield play was the dominant factor for most of the period.

After 30 minutes, Livermore's Mike Miller poked his left foot into the hole of a doughnut of contesting players and pool-cued the ball into the left corner of the goal past sprawling Foothill goalie Dave Konecny.

It was, apparently, only the Cowboys aggressive brand of play that kept the visitors from breaking the ice earlier.

The 'Pokes held a wide, 11-3, edge in first half shots — many of them wild. But before Livermore could follow up or link a series of effective passes, a green-clad body would slam into a Falcon and the whistle would blow.

And while that ired Foothill's players no end — halfback Bruno Dulurier was prompted to instigate a brief tussle with Cowboy Doug Miller midway through the second half — the abundance of foul calls, 28, against his team didn't bother Rashe.

"Our team is an aggressive team," he admitted. "But they aren't mean or dirty fouls."

Both teams return home Friday. Foothill to face cross-free freeway rival Amador Valley and Livermore to meet surprising California.

Mat rally ties Cal

By Brian Martin

Sixty seconds was all that stood between Granada and virtual elimination from the East Bay Athletic League soccer race.

Playing against lowly California High on their own field yesterday, the Mats played catch-up most of the afternoon until Manzar Iqbal sliced an indirect kick to streaking forward Shannon Estill, who glanced the ball past lunging Cal goalie Mike Daugherty inches inside the net to save a 2-2 tie.

As it is, the Mats suffered a blow by only tying the Grizzlies. Their record now stands at 6-2-2 and games with Amador, Foothill and Dublin loom on the horizon.

Yet Cal was from satisfied with the tie, which makes their record 2-8-1. "It's been the story of our life this season," said Cal coach John Rego. "Five one-goal losses and three ties (two in pre-season). We're almost there, but kick to the right of Daugherty for a 1-1 tie 25 minutes into the half. In defense of the official, who took heated abuse on the call, Callaghan did, for a split second, trap the ball with his forearm while trying to regain his balance after taking a spill.

But Cal scored a "rare" goal against the wind, as Clarke picked up his second goal of the day on another lofty 20-yard shot just six minutes from game's end. It was the only goal of the day scored against the cold, treacherous wind. To make matters worse for the team against the wind, they were also forced to go uphill. That fact accounted for Granada's 16-7 advantage in shots on goal in the second half.

Dublin offense shines

By Gary Brown

Dublin High School's soccer team was playing loose for once yesterday and the result was a solid 6-3 victory over visiting Monte Vista in an East Bay Athletic League match.

"Our kids had fun today," said Gael coach Gene Cassvan. "As a result, we played loose and had a really good game on offense, moving the ball well all over the field."

The win, which gives Dublin a 6-5 EBAL mark, saw the Gaels blank 22 shots on the Monte Vista goal as the Mustangs could shoot just seven.

With the score tied 2-2 at halftime the Gaels went to work in the second half. Paul Mangini spearheaded the attack with two goals, one a 10-yard direct kick which gave the victors a 4-3 lead 15 minutes into the half.

At the 26-minute mark Kevin Dick booted in a penalty kick to make it 5-3.

With three minutes left in the contest Mangini put the icing on the cake with a 10-yard blast off an assist from Bob Klein, who played goalie the first half for Dublin.

Monte Vista started the contest as if it were intent on blowing the Gaels out of their own stadium. Two minutes into the contest Rick Biessim fed David Mays the ball and he planted one in over the head of Klein to give MV a 1-0 lead.

However, the Gaels came back seven minutes later when Luke Bryant fired one in from six yards out off an assist from Jorge Garratt.

Hans Schlicker put the victors ahead on a penalty kick 20 minutes into the contest.

The Dublin lead was short-lived, however, as Dave Erdy boomed one in off an assist from Dean Kinzie from the corner with a minute left in the half.

Dublin outshot MV 12-4 in the first half and generally controlled the offensive movement throughout the game.

Still, Monte Vista stayed in the game on the basis of some fine goalkeeping by Jeff Bowles, who had seven saves. Klein had one save and Rusty Allen, who came in during the second half, added three.

The Gaels had three corner kicks to two for the Mustangs. MV had four fouls and Dublin one.

Paula Ng

Ng Alameda's prep of week

Paula Ng, Livermore High School's junior track standout, is this week's Alameda County Fleeto prep of the week for her brilliant performance in Friday's Examiner Games meet at the Cow Palace.

Ng tied for second in the open women's 60-yard dash with a personal best of 6.9. She was only a tenth of a second behind Andrea Lynch of Great Britain, who competed in the Olympics last summer.

Paula also placed in the long jump with a 18-1/4 leap for third.

Bart Bowers of Richmond's Kennedy High School, was named the Contra Costa winner.

Bowers, a 6-8, 230 pound center scored 24 points and grabbed 12 rebounds in an 82-44 win over Harry Ellis. Later in the week he scored 24 more points and hauled down 13 rebounds as the Eagles smashed De Anza 101-57. He only played three quarters in each of the games. He's a senior.

Other East Bay Athletic League nominees were Tim Jenkins, Livermore senior guard, and Linda Silva of Monte Vista, a 5-4, 110 pound junior on the 'Stangs' girls' basketball team.

Jenkins, 6-foot, scored 28 points in Livermore's 88-68 win over Foothill and had two steals. He is averaging 18 points a contest and 17.7 for the whole season.

Silva scored 18 points in the Mustangs' 57-29 win over Granada last week. She is a three-year veteran and the leading scorer on the team. Monte Vista is 8-4 this season.

Dolsby sets mark in MV win

The second barrel finally went off with a big bang.

Carol Dolsby, who has been playing second-fiddle to the high-scoring Lynn Silva for the Monte Vista Mustangs, grabbed the spotlight for herself last night by setting an East Bay Athletic League scoring mark with 35 points as the Mustangs stopped Dublin, 68-45 on the losers' court last night in girls' basketball action.

The win kept Monte Vista one game behind league-leading Amador Valley.

St. Michael's falls

St. Michael's fell to Santa Maria 51-38 in eighth grade action of the Diablo Valley CYO league recently.

Brian Avila was the high scorer with 18 points and Brian Petoletti added 10.

In seventh grade action Santa Maria crushed St. Michael's 58-17. Todd Madrid had nine points.

St. Michael's turned the trick in sixth grade action with a 44-16 win over St. Bonaventure. Jeff Waters had 14 points and Don Heise added 13 for the victors.

In fifth grade action St. Michael's edged Most Precious Blood 16-14. Robert Guterrez and Derek Madrid each had six points.

Most Precious Blood topped St. Michael's, 18-10 in fourth grade competition. Damian Stocking led the losers with four points. Delham of the winners had six.

In National League action St. Bonaventure dumped St. Michael's 34-16. Greg Phelps had 12 points.

St. Isidore's topped St. Michael's 35-26 behind Ababi's 24 points. Frank Bamford had 14 points and Mark Monson six for St. Michael's.

St. Ignacio dumped St. Michael's 40-5 in sixth grade action. Rob Falco had 11 points.

St. Michael's edged out Most Precious Blood 17-13 in fifth grade a fifth grade game.

In fourth grade action St. Michael's dumped Most Precious Blood 14-6. Mike Rogers and John Eichhorn each had six points. James McKenna, Ricky Gonzales and Judy Cantril each had several rebounds.

Joanne Callender.

Callender was the only bright spot for the Gaels as she scored 20 points, mostly from inside 10 feet. But Callender does not just rely on her size to get her points — she is a fine athlete with a nice soft touch.

But the big story was Dolsby who made seven straight free throws to bring her two-game free throw string to 13 in a row. She hit her 14 baskets from all over the floor including six in the fourth period.

However, despite Dolsby's heroics, Amador Valley remains on top of the league standings. Jayne Kuhns with 14 points and Sheryl Withoff with 12 markers led the Dons to a tough win over San Ramon.

The Wolves, winless in league play trailed by only one at intermission. But could manage only eight points in the second half.

Like the boys' teams the San Ramon girls just couldn't get the ball to go in against the tough Amador Valley defense. Lynn Bousliman hit a bucket with 30 seconds left to give Granada its tight win over California. P.J. Moore, who led the losers with 19 points, missed the first of a one-and-one free throw situation with a few seconds left and the Matadors had their victory.

All-star grid game not rescheduled

Associated Press

RALEIGH, N.C. — The Coaches All-American football game, an off-season fixture for the last 16 summers, will not be played in 1977, but may be resumed in the future, the American Football Coaches Association announced Tuesday.

The uncertainty of players' contracts with professional teams and the astronomical rise in the cost of insuring players' contracts and offers were the major reasons for the suspension, according to Ben Martin, association president and head coach of the Air Force Academy.

"The game annually matched the best seniors in the country against each other each June," Martin said, "but it is getting increasingly difficult to get some of the headliners to play."

The game was played in Lubbock for the past seven years.

"We reluctantly suspend for this year, but if the present situation involving players and insurance is eased, it is possible we will resume," Martin said in a statement released both here and in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The annual College All-Star game in Chicago, which pitted top college players against the champions of the National Football League in the fall, was canceled last year.

Wolves still winless

bit of trouble with his first goal. Classmate Kevin Crow fed a cross field pass to Oxen, who, in turn, had goalie Bill Hefferman drawn out, and consequently tapped the ball in. The play covered five yards.

The Dons, going with long breakaway passes at times in the first half, resorted back to their conventional style of offense. It worked. With a minute to go in the first half, John Peterson, assisted by John Castillo, booted in a soft 15 yarder.

The second half was more of the same. Oxen started it off converting on a penalty kick after being clotheslined near goal.

Last seasons leading scorer, Joe Correia, put the Dons up 6-0, 10 minutes into the period. Correia dribbled 25 yards alone and neatly rolled the ball underneath Hefferman.

The Dons' Mike Hanson and Steve Inglebreck were credited with the seventh goal. Actually it was San Ramon's Paul Jones, who, in his understandable rush to feed the ball to Hefferman, scored for Amador.

Wolves' coach Bob Valcaldia, still winless this season, is, however, looking forward to tomorrow's match with Monte Vista at San Ramon High at 3 p.m.

"This is the only game besides California that the kids look forward too," he said.

"Monte Vista's in the valley with us, and skill wise it's as close as ever," Valcaldia continued. "It's always a good game with Monte Vista. Whose ever in shape lasts the whole game."

Best shakes league

LONDON — George Best, who used to shake up opposition goalkeepers with his prolific scoring, now has the entire English League shook up. He's challenging the British version of the reserve clause — and he seems to be beating it.

The 30-year-old Northern Irishman, once the darling of the swinging set, recently played for the Los Angeles Aztecs of the North American Soccer League and is now playing for Fulham, an English League team, for $680 a game. He is not under contract to Fulham.

And Best says he plans to return to the United States for another season with the Aztecs.

Therein lies the center of a spreading war between the soccer bodies of the two countries.

Behind the squabble is the English League's determination to preserve the retain-and-transfer system, under which players are tied to their clubs in much the same way as American baseball players used to be under the reserve clause before an arbitrator's decision, upheld by the courts, overhauled the system.

Best busted the British system half-open by coming home from the United States after a spell with the Aztecs and signing an agreement with Fulham to play on a game-by-game basis — and drawing thousands of additional fans each week.

If Best goes back to Los Angeles to play for the Aztecs this coming season, the league says the players' contract system in England will be undermined.

Under the retain-and-transfer system, a player signs with a club for the season. When the season and the contract end, he is still tied to that club, whether he likes it or not.

If the club doesn't want to keep him, it fixes his value in the form of a transfer fee — sometimes as high as half a million dollars, often just a few hundred. Until another club agrees to buy him for the set amount, the athlete is not allowed to play league soccer.

Best won his soccer reputation with Manchester United in the 1960s. Then he became famous for other things — getting on newspapers' front pages pictured with actresses and beauty queens in night clubs and vacation spots.

Mark Larson

Headed for stardom

Spartans' hurling ace

By Rich Freedman

While a junior at Amador Valley High, the thoughts of pitching in Angel Stadium, Fenway Park and Candlestick danced in Mark Larson's head.

But as a senior, his arm thought otherwise and the only way Larson would be shaking hands with any pro players would be by turning lunatic and leaping out of the stands.

As a pencil-framed junior, Larson was undefeated in seven decisions. The best was yet to come, or so Coach Don Bush and several scouts believed.

But Larson's overconfidence and a penchant for throwing at batters instead of past them nearly destroyed his rainbow hopes of making it to the big leagues.

"I tried to impress the scouts and threw too hard," explained Larson, now a sophomore at San Jose State University.

Larson suffered through a 5-5 season in his final Amador campaign, but said the fault should not rest only on his arm.

"I lost several two-hitters," Larson said, wryly noting the Amador batters often went up to the plate exclusively for some exercise and a conversation with the catcher.

With high school behind him, the 6-3, 170-pounder opted for San Jose State although powerful Chabot also kept a watchful eye on him.

"Junior college players are drafted after their two years of school is over. I didn't think I'd be ready after a couple of years so I came to San Jose," Larson explained.

The Pleasanton resident, who commutes to school, met a pleasant challenge as a college freshman.

The motions of playing jv ball were bypassed as coach Gene Menges quickly placed Larson on the varsity.

"I was the only lefty on the team," Larson said, almost not believing it himself.

"I didn't know whether I'd be starting one day or relieving," he added.

Larson's won-lost mark of 0-3 was not indicative of his true value to a club which had few valuable players.

"My earned run average was something like 1.93 when I relieved," he said while meticulously jotting other hurlers pitches during an intrasquad game this week.

"But," he said, motioning his right thumb upwards, "When I started, my e.r.a. jumped."

Larson, relying mainly on his slider, struck out 45 batters in 57 innings and was second on the team in appearances with 18.

Larson, however, found himself pitching for a team that thought a run was something only pantyhose and nylon stockings achieved.

"I would relieve three or four scoreless innings, give up a run and lose the game," Larson said of his three defeats.

"We had a very bad attitude last season," Larson said. "This year, everyone wants to win."

Although SJSU's opener is Feb. 8 against Cal, Larson has set his sights on the Spartan Baseball Classic March 28.

"The No. 1 team in the country, Arizona, will be here. There will be scouts from all over," Larson said with a smile and gleam in his eyes.

First saying, "I just want to get drafted," Larson softly said, "I'd like to play in the American League. Maybe with the Angels. They seem to turn out good, young pitchers."

With his confidence obviously unbending, at least Mark Larson's fastball is finally under control.

Mats stay unbeaten

Granada High School's wrestling team continued undefeated in East Bay Athletic league action with a crushing 59-10 victory over host California yesterday.

Roy Davis continued his brilliant wrestling for the Mats with a 39-second pin in the first round. The Matadors had four other pins en route to their easy victory.

Granada is now 4-0 in EBAL play while California is 0-4.

Granada also won the junior varsity match, 57-12.

He is a 1976 graduate of Bellport High School in New York.

Budweiser hitch to appear here

The Budweiser Champion Clydesdale horses are coming to Alameda County during the month of February.

Alameda County is one of the stops the 8-horse hitch will make this year as they travel the country. The Budweiser Clydesdales are probably the most widely traveled horses in the United States, covering some 40,000 miles a year as they appear in parades, state fairs, horse shows, and other special events.

The Clydesdales will arrive in the county Jan. 31 and be stabled in the parking lot of a beverage company in Union City through Feb. 7.

Their initial Bay Area appearance, after a press preview, will be in a San Jose parade Feb. 3. On Feb. 4 the Clydesdales and the Budweiser air balloon will be at Sun Valley Mall in Concord, at Southland Shopping Center in Hayward Feb. 5, and at several north county sites the latter part of February.

The Clydesdales will appear Feb. 21 at the Marriott in Berkeley, and have tentative parade dates Feb. 23 (Oakland), Feb. 24 (Alameda), Feb. 25 (University Avenue, Berkeley), and Feb. 26 (Golden Gate Fields).

Efforts are being made to schedule the Clydesdales for the Valley during mid-February.

Manager workshop through Chabot

A workshop in personnel aspects of management will be offered by Chabot College Valley Campus starting today in Room C at the Holiday Inn in Livermore.

The class will meet from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. today, Thursday, Feb. 16, 18, 22, 23, March 9, 10, 14, 15, and April 5, 6, 11, 12, and 28. It is designed to develop an appreciation of the personnel aspects of the manager's job, to promote understanding of typical personnel problems, and to develop skills in conducting personnel relations in face-to-face situations.

The course, known as Supervision 98.7-91, provides three units of college credit. Students may register at the Valley Campus at the first class meeting. The course was added after the regular winter quarter schedule was printed and will be conducted in a location different from regular class locations.

Grim drought forecast — worst ahead

Leshner News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Contra Costans can expect little or no relief from the drought and can look for another drought next year, according to Will Perry, director of the county Office of Emergency Services.

In a report to county supervisors, Perry said, "Droughts of this nature occur in California on a regular 22-year cycle and extend for a period of three years."

Perry said this year's drought will be the most severe of the cycle and could have wide-ranging economic impacts.

"We have survived droughts in the past," he said. "The impact this time, however, will be the greatest in our history due to our increased population, our increased industrialization, and our increased dependence on our water and electrical utilities."

"Next year we can expect an increase in precipitation, but not in sufficient amounts to return the state's waterholding facilities to normal levels," he said.

While water customers in the western and southern parts of the county face water rationing by the East Bay Municipal Utility District, Perry said central and east county residents served by the Contra Costa Canal face a problem of water quality, not quantity.

More salt water is finding its way into water at the Delta as low-salinity water is sent to the central valley and southern California, Perry said.

"It is foreseeable," Perry said, "the salinity level in the drinking water in central Contra Costa County will reach the levels of being a serious health hazard and will cause irreparable damage to lawns and landscaping plants."

Perry said lack of water at hydroelectric facilities this summer could cause "an electrical energy crisis," leading to blackouts and reduced industrial use.

County agricultural officials have estimated that county farmers already stand to lose at least $2 million, in addition to $9.8 million in losses attributed to last year's drought.

"Levels of unemployment will increase through the summer months due to reduced industrial and agricultural production which will, in turn, precipitate a reduction in the commercial sale of consumer goods," Perry said.

Vernon Cline, county public works director, said land slides, normally associated with excess rainfall, were above normal this year because of the lack of moisture in the ground.

Flood control channels have sprouted "an abnormal growth of vegetation," Cline added, resulting in an additional $20,000 in maintenance costs.

Landscaped areas in county road medians, flood channels, and around county buildings are requiring more expensive watering this year, Cline added, with the total cost undetermined.

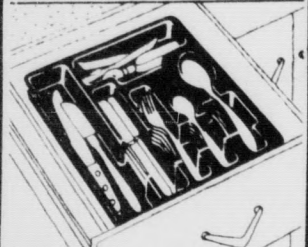

Cline also warned that if drinking water dips below acceptable standards, bottled water would have to be used in county offices and institutions. "The cost could be extremely high," he said.

Perry's specific recommendations include re-establishing the county's agricultural advisory groups forming a non-agricultural advisory group including representatives from water agencies, a study on the industrial impact of the drought, and temporary staff increases at the Office of Emergency Services.
